

Neil Blacklock
Development Director
neil.blacklock@respect.uk.net

Respect Activities

- UK Helplines
 - A) Respect Phonenumber
 - B) Men's Advice Line (not NI)
- Multi Site Research Programme
- Dads' and Mums' Space 121
- Young People's Project
- Domestic Violence and Employment
- Accreditation and Service Development

Are we asking the right questions?

Why does she ...?

Why do we let the abuse continue?

Violence against women is not only a question of victimisation but one of perpetration

Our questions need to include the abuser as the problem and part of the solution

Do we have the right responses

- Recognise
- Respond
- Refer
- Record

Respect matrix of use and experience of IPV

	IN coercive control OVER partner/ex, because of own use of violence, abuse, controlling behaviour, threats etc ↓	UNDER coercive control FROM partner/ex use of violence, abuse, controlling behaviour, threats etc ↓
Uses or has used physical or non physical force against partner/ex →	Perpetrator of intimate partner violence	Victim (IPV) who has used some form of violent resistance
Experienced or experiencing physical or non physical force from partner/ex →	Perpetrator (IPV) whose victim has used some form of violent resistance	Victim of intimate partner violence

Critical skills to increase safety

- Distinguish between unhappy, conflicted relationships and coercive control and fear
- Recognise who is doing what, to whom and with what consequences
- Refer appropriately

Respect helpline 0808 802 4040

Men's Advice Line 0808 801 0327

<http://www.respect.uk.net/pages/briefing-papers.html>